What affected the Fund’s performance?

- Strong market returns in 2024 were driven by the AI theme, especially by key enablers like the Magnificent 7, which remain at the forefront of investing in the new technology.
- The Fund benefited from stock selection, especially in the semiconductor industry and the consumer discretionary sector. Overweights in communication services and industrials also contributed.
- Fund performance was hindered by two real estate-related positions, which were hurt by higher interest rates. Rates rose on the prospect that growth-oriented policies from President Trump could reignite inflation.
- Underweights in an EV company and an auto components firm also detracted, as did positions in IT services.
