

Structured Product Disclosure

Structured products are complex products and may be subject to special risks, which may include, but are not limited to: loss of initial investment; issuer credit risk; limited or no appreciation; risks associated with the underlying reference asset(s); no periodic payments; call prior to maturity (a redemption could affect the yield represented); early redemption fees or other applicable fees; price volatility resulting from issuer's and/or guarantor's credit quality; lower interest rates and/or yield compared to conventional debt with a comparable maturity; unique tax implications; concentration risk of owning the related security; limited or no secondary market; restrictions on transferability; conflicts of interest; and limits on participation in appreciation of underlying asset(s). To review a complete list of risks, please refer to the offering documents for the structured product. For more information about the risks specific to your structured products, you should contact your financial institution or advisor. Certain structured products are designed to make periodic distributions to you and any such structured product distributions you receive will be listed in the Transactions section of your statement and other sources where transaction data is used or viewed, including both paper and electronic communications and data sources. Structured product distributions may be listed there as "Bond Interest Received"; however, this description is not intended to reflect a determination as to either the asset classification of the product or the U. S. tax treatment of such distributions.
